

The University of Winnipeg Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) Undergraduate Degree Credits

Definition: RPL/PLAR at The University of Winnipeg provides learners with welcome opportunities to identify demonstrate and gain recognition for what they already know and can do. It is for learners who have significant learning through informal and non-formal education, work and life experiences. This learning may be appropriate to meet admission requirements or be equivalent to university level credit.

FOUR MAIN AREAS under RPL:

- 1) admission of students who do not meet Mature Status admission requirements Mature Access
- 2) transfer credit for non-traditional post-secondary education,
- 3) university credit through the PLAR challenge for credit process, and
- 4) recognition of Canadian Forces Military training and service

Students are able to access our 400+ courses from any discipline in the Faculties of Arts, Business and Economics, Education, Kinesiology and Applied Health and Science (some exceptions apply). PLAR is not limited to any one specific program. PLAR is student-driven and the PLAR movement relies heavily on their demand.

The focus of this report is on # 3) PLAR challenge for credit. It does not include graduate studies, mature access admission, non-traditional transfer credit or military training and service.

This report lists alphabetically each department that has had PLAR activity since September 1999. Please refer to the headings at the top of each page for the course numbers and titles, the number of PLAR candidates per course, and the methods used for assessment.
